

DAILY PUBLIC LEDGER

SIXTH YEAR. MAYSVILLE, KY., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1897. ONE CENT.

Sworn Circulation LARGEST IN THE CITY. Purely Business! The columns of a newspaper represent a cash value. No publisher can afford to give advertising "notices" free any more than a merchant can toss over his counter free gifts of dry goods or shoes. A newspaper is a legitimate business concern. Its columns are its stock in trade, and advertisements should be paid for, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

We Have So Many Good Things

In our different lines to show you that we cannot call your attention to all of them in this ad. We will name a few of our leaders that we want you to call for and judge their merits: First—Our New Covert Cloth English Top Coats, a very swell garment, exclusively confined to us. Prices range from $10 to $22.50.

Second—Our Custom-Made English Cheviot and Scotch Wool Suits.

We have them in the very latest designs, both cut and style of cloth. This line we think the greatest we ever had. You will think so, too, when you see it. They range in price from $9 to $25.

Third—Our Clay Worsted Suits

Are the best values imaginable. We bought them long before the Tariff Bill went into effect, and are enabled to sell them at much less than the manufacturers can make them for now. They range in price from $7.50 to $20.

The latter price represents our custom-made, and would cost you $35 elsewhere.

THE LEDGER makes its best bow to Mrs. C. C. Degman of Maplewood Farm for her thoughtfulness in transferring the Prize Cheese from the Floral Hall to the Editor's Pantry. If all good housewives were as considerate as the hostess of Maplewood, what a blessed world this would be!

The Campfire closed Saturday night, scoring a great success, socially as well as financially. There were addresses by Judge James P. Harbeson and Hon. Charles D. Newell which were well received, and the boys evidenced their appreciation by hearty applause. At the close of the addresses the dancers made merry until near midnight. For the success of the Campfire much credit is due to Messrs. George N. Crawford, John V. Des, John Walsh, W. T. Watson and those who assisted them.

DROWNED AT SPRINGDALE.

Mr. Joshua E. Truett Meets Death in the Waters of Cabin Creek.

Joshua E. Truett, a tenant on Mr. C. C. Degman's "Maplewood Farm" at Springdale, was drowned in Cabin Creek at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening.

He was seining and was seized with cramps.

Deceased was about 30 years of age, and leaves a wife and two children, the former being a daughter of William Vaughn.

The body was recovered soon after the drowning and the funeral took place yesterday afternoon, with interment at Bethany.

CREDIT TO WHOM DUE.

Some of the Agencies that Made the Maysville Fair a Success.

"Oh, it'll be a fizzle!"

And kindred remarks were heard on nearly every side when the Maysville Fair of 1897 was projected.

But it wasn't a "fizzle."

On the contrary it was a "howling success"—as successful Fairs go.

Who and what made it so?

Well, in the first place, Colonel W. H. Fremont, who conceived the idea, is a Hustler from Hustler County, and he made things "hum" from start to finish.

He got Mr. Joseph Hechinger into the scheme with him, and these two—Fremont to plan and Jo to guarantee—pushed the enterprise for all that was in it.

One of their most valued aids was Mr. Hal C. Curran, who enlisted the local press in the cause, and who had charge of the Floral Hall during the Fair.

Mr. Curran not only wrote the dozens of columns of matter that appeared in THE LEDGER, but he secured its publication without the cost of one cent to the Financial Managers of the Fair.

For this service Mr. Curran deserves most liberal compensation; and for the aid extended by the press—so far at least as THE LEDGER is concerned—it expects what it always gets—nothing.

The Rev. F. W. Harrop delivered an eloquent discourse in the tent at Electric Park at 3 p. m. yesterday.

There are symptoms of Gun Club in this city, the microbes emanating from the pigeon shoots at last week's Fair.

Colonel Fremont authorizes THE LEDGER to say that tomorrow evening he will reopen Electric Park with a 10-cent vaudeville show.

Mrs. Ben P. McClannahan has THE LEDGER's thanks for several generous slices of the cake which won for her the blue ribbon at the Fair.

Joseph H. Crawford has been appointed by the County Court to notify officers of the election, the Deputy Sheriff and Coroner being candidates.

The steamer Argand leaves Maysville Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 10 a. m. Leaves Cincinnati alternate days, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

There was a colored dance beyant on Hord's Hill Saturday night, when like Barns drew a knife on Deputy Constable Charles Dawson, who responded with a pistol, the shot making a slight wound in the cheek.

FROM THE FAIR

When Shall We See Its Like Again Some More?

THE LAST DAY WAS THE BEST.

It's all over now.

Excepting the headaches—and paying the bills.

And the Maysville Fair of the good year of grace 1897 passes into history, to remain only a pleasant memory to thousands—and a disappointment to those who always expect 84 and a half's worth of entertainment for 172 cents.

Saturday's attendance was immense; and it is perhaps no exaggeration to say it was the largest ever on the grounds, the crowd being variously estimated at from four to six thousand—about half way between being a conservative estimate.

The Wild West and the great Cyrene were the excellent specialties, while the balloon ascensions attracted the usual interest.

Messrs. Marsh, Wadsworth and Stevenson agreed to divide first money, there not being enough birds to "shoot off" their tie.

The Maysville Fair of 1897 has proven that proper advertising and a purpose to run a "Fair" on lines apart from a Sabbath-School will draw a crowd; and it's the "crowd" that spends money and makes the "Fair" a success.

This may not comport with the views of many, but it's a baldheaded and bare footed truth all the same.

There were over 700 entries in the Floral Hall, and in handling the entire number of articles only one slight mistake was made, and that was not due to the Manager.

For his exceeding care and courtesy it does look like some good lady might have proffered Superintendent Hal Curran at least a slice of cake; but they didn't.

GLOVES—Right from Grenoble, France, a new invoice of the Burmont Glove. There isn't such another $1 Glove to be had. Black and colors. This notice is for customers who have been waiting and for women who want better Gloves than they have had.

DRESS GOODS—Every year the beauties in fancy dress stuffs multiply, but this season all the textile ingenuity of man seems to have been concentrated in the designing and weaving of the elegant fabric. It's so easy to accumulate mere numbers that we devote especial care to having nothing but the choicest, every style the right style—a style that should be here. If we could attach samples of our Dress Goods to this advertisement the response would overwhelm us with business, for the prices are as marvelous in their lowness as the goods in their richness.

PLAIDS—A winsome group, a dozen styles. The whole range of cross-cross beauty in wool, with overplays of bright silken threads; 38 inches, 50c. Some cheaper. Bicycle Suits or utility stuffs. Pure wool, inextensive goodness; and it's good looking, too. Nineteen color mixes, eight plain colors; 36 inches, 25c. And the most delightful days for wheeling are just ahead.

WAPPLE SUITING—Black overthread, beauty dripping on a color. The first lot went in a jiffy. Here's more of it. Two grades, 40c. and 35c.

37c. GASHMERES at 29c.—38-inch goods, all wool. Just the thing for children's school frocks. Brown, green, garnet, cardinals and rich blue.

HANDKERCHIEFS—Small children require a great many. It's one of the instances where price of quality is not a factor, as the natural losing practicality is universal with youngsters. It makes no difference if it is a hand embroidered all-linen Handkerchief or a cheaper one; they are all lost. We have an especially attractive line of 5c. Handkerchiefs for children.
